

Children's Camp

Every Year more than 4000 children enjoy Elks Camps

The Elks Recreational Children's Camp Society was founded to provide camping facilities in the Province of British Columbia for children who might not otherwise have an opportunity for a camping or holiday experience.

The camps were originally designed to accommodate groups of children with special needs but due to the demand, they are now open to any organized group of children under the age of 18. Special arrangements can be made for use of Elks Camps by groups of adults with special needs.

Elks Camps are available year round at no charge to user groups. All facilities are accessible to people with handicaps and include dormitories, beds, mattresses, dining rooms, kitchens complete with dishes, utensils and appliances, as well as indoor and outdoor washrooms. Each camp has space for tenting for those wishing to "rough it".

Resident Caretakers are on hand to assist groups and to help make the experience enjoyable for all.
